

Abbotsford, BC – April 6, 2010

Abbotsford Community Foundation today announced that Carson Nofle, renowned local building designer and land use consultant, has been appointed to their Board of Directors. The Foundation has served the community for over 30 years by taking a leadership role to enhance the quality of life in Abbotsford, a great city with sustainable Country Values.

“Carson Nofle will be an asset to our esteemed board, where community leaders plan endowment building and grant-making that assist the community to grow in a balanced and integrated way”, explains Executive Director, Deborah Bullock.

Carson has recently retired from Group Two Design Consultants and Focus Architecture, where he was a principal since 1972. He is currently a principal of Nofle Land Development Strategies Ltd. Carson is well regarded for his consultative approach to both leadership and design. Additionally, he is a long-time Foundation supporter, and established the Carson G.A. Nofle Architectural Design Award in 1993.

Abbotsford Community Foundation has had recent success moving forward with strategies to expand endowments that will secure the future of our community projects and local charities. The Neighbourhood Ball, held on October 2nd, 2009, raised $100,000 for their new Housing Endowment Fund.
